APPEAL MADE TO STATE RAIL AND WAREHOUSE BODY

NORTHERN PACIFIC, MINNESOTA & INTERNATIONAL ARE IN GROUP

STATE HEARINGS SIMULTANEOUSLY WITH INTERSTATE COMMERCE COM.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—(U.P.)—Seventeen railroads operating in Minnesota today asked the state railroad and warehouse commission for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

The petition accompanies a similar request submitted a month ago to the interstate commerce commission in Washington by all the railroads of the United States asking for a similar general increase.

The state commission expected to conduct hearings on the petition simultaneously with the interstate commerce commission hearings. The application today is necessary in order to bring rates for shipments within the state up to any new level the federal commission may set for interstate shipments.

Railroads asking the increases are the Duluth, Missabe and Northern, Duluth, Winnipeg and Pacific, Canadian National, Northern Pacific, Soo Line, Minneapolis and St. Louis, Illinois Central, Great Northern, Chicago, Burlington, Great Western, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, Rock Island, Minneapolis Western, Northfield and Southern, Big Fork and International Falls and the Minnesota and International.

LUTHER SEEKS NEW REDISCOUNT RATE FOR REICHSBANK

London, July 9.—(U.P.)—Dr. Hans Luther, Reichsbank president, arrived from Berlin today. He is seeking a new and large rediscount credit for the Reichsbank. After the negotiations, he will proceed to Paris and Basel.

The French government has intimated it will consent to granting of such a credit only if important German political concessions are made.

It was understood the French had demanded primarily the abandonment of the Austro-German customs union project, and also a German "naval holiday moratorium" at least for the duration of the Hoover one year holiday plan. That would mean cessation of building of the new pocket battleship Ersatz Lothringen.

Columbus, O., July 9.—(U.P.)—Wiley Post, Harold Gatty, their wives and F. C. Hall, backer of their record "round-the-world flight," took off from Port Columbus at 9:20 today for Chickasha, Okla.

The fliers' wives left the field a few minutes before the Winnie Mae which carried Post and Gatty and in which they are making the trip to Oklahoma for a celebration in their honor.

The party was forced to spend the night here when the plane bearing the fliers' wives, F. C. Hall, sponsor of the flight, and a pilot, was damaged in landing late yesterday.

CO-EDS RESENTED THE CRITICISMS OF DEAN NARDIN

Madison, Wis., July 9.—(U.P.)—F. Louise Nardin, who once warned University of Wisconsin co-eds they might "arouse" male students by wearing red dresses or puckering their lips, will not return to the university next fall as dean of women. It has been announced.

Students have charged Miss Nardin with being old fashioned because she told co-eds they must not wear clocked stockings or stoop to drink from water fountains. The student daily newspaper had campaigns against her policies.

A university announcement today said Miss Nardin had been offered either a year's leave of absence or a position in the English department. It was learned that she has not accepted either offer.

VATICAN AND FASCIST REGIME BREACH WIDENS

CHARGES MADE THAT POPE HAD ALLIED SELF WITH FOES OF FASCISM

DENUNCIATION OF ITALO-VATICAN CONCORDAT BY ITALY IMMINENT

By FRANCIS REA (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, July 9.—The controversy between the government and the Holy See took a turn for the worse today as a result of charges that Pope Pius XI had allied himself with foes of Fascism.

Denunciation of the Italo-Vatican concordat by the Italian government appears imminent, it was learned from an authoritative quarter today. This followed increasing tension and publication of denunciatory articles by Fascist newspapers.

"(To 'denounce' a treaty is to give notice of intention to withdraw from adherence to its provisions; in effect, to cancel).

Premier Benito Mussolini ruled today that membership in both the Fascist party and in Azione Cattolica, the Catholic lay organization, are incompatible.

The ruling was regarded as the most drastic move yet taken in the controversy between the Vatican and Italy, and would compel Catholics to desert Azione if they desire to remain Fascists. At the same time, it was said on high authority that Mussolini was considering denouncing the concordat, or activating instrument of the Lateran treaty.

Official circles said the government was carefully considering the newspapers' demand for denunciation of the concordat. It was understood the proposal was discussed at this morning's cabinet meeting, but if a decision was made, announcement will be withheld for some time.

It was said the government's attitude would be dictated by public opinion, which was now understood to be urging denunciation.

The newspaper Giornale d'Italia in an obviously "inspired" article, asserted that the pontiff had worked with enemies of the Fascists both at home and abroad.

The charge followed earlier press attacks involving the Catholic laymen's organization Azione Cattolica—which it was asserted also is involved in anti-Fascist activities—but for the first time aimed directly at the pope.

A challenge was issued by the newspaper to the Osservatore Romano, semi-official Vatican organ, defying it to disavow formally any solidarity between the pope and anti-Fascists.

The recent encyclical of Pope Pius, which was sent secretly to Paris, was declared to be "a violent act of hostility" because of its attacks on the Fascists in connection with the education of the youth of the nation.

"It hurt's Italy's national conscience," the newspaper said, "because it was manifestly anti-Italian character. What is the worth of a concordat with the Holy See, considering that the Holy See violates the spirit of that document?"

The article said the concordat, enforcing the Lateran accord, aimed to create peace between the church and the nation, but that it had "been turned into a political weapon" in the hands of the pope, as a result of his latest encyclical.

British Prime Minister is Confined Home with Chill

London, July 9.—(U.P.)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, sturdy, graying Scottish prime minister of Great Britain, was confined indoors with a chill today. The premier's illness was described as a "slight chill." ### Disarmament, Reparations Inter-Dependent Problems to be Considered at 6 Conferences

U. S., ENGLISH FRENCH, GERMAN STATESMEN CONVE

HENRY L. STIMSON TO ARRIVE AT PARIS JULY 15 FROM FLORENCE

AMERICAN SECRETARY STATE PRESUMABLY TO CONCENTRATE ON DISARMAMENT By WALLACE CARROLL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, July 9.—The inter-dependent problems of disarmament and reparations will be taken up at a series of six conferences involving the foremost statesmen of the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany, starting Monday.

Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, will arrive July 15 from Florence. He will meet members of the cabinet at the American embassy on the 16th. The following day he will meet Premier Pierre Laval at the annual dinner which Ambassador Walter Edge gives to the president.

Stimson presumably will concentrate on disarmament, as he considers the debts question he would discuss at length with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand the French thesis on security, and outline the United States' disarmament proposals.

Ramsay MacDonald, the British prime minister, and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson will arrive July 13 and proceed to Berlin the following evening without seeking Stimson. They will remain in Berlin until July 21, leaving for London at that time, after which Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius are expected to come to Paris.

Stimson's movements have been timed so as to prevent him from meeting the British officials before he gets to London, as the European powers, particularly the French, consider bilateral conferences more satisfactory than more complicated gatherings.

Experts will open financial conference in London July 17.

The government decided at a cabinet meeting tomorrow to study and make preparations for the approaching Geneva disarmament conference, particularly in connection with a report prepared by the secretariat of the superior council of national defense showing potential war-making abilities of the principal powers.

Second in importance will be interpretation of clauses of the Versailles treaty and the league covenant concerning disarmament, particularly the minimum armament compatible with international obligations, national security and geographic situation.

Frank J. Hogan, Fall's attorney, filed a motion to suspend sentence. Fall was convicted of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Doheny. The hearing was before Justice Jennings Bailey. Atlee Pomeroy, of Ohio, special prosecutor, appeared for the government.

CROONER VALLEE AND BRIDE FAR FROM THE CROWDS

HONEYMOONING IN LUXURIOUS APARTMENT IN NEW YORK

MET BRIDE WHEN HE WAS MAKING PICTURE "THE VAGABOND LOVER"

New York, July 9.—(U.P.)—Rudy Vallee and his bride, the former Fay Webb, actress, were honeymooning in a luxurious uptown apartment today; seeking to elude questioners and curious crowds.

The orchestra leader, whose radio crooning made the hearts of countless feminine listeners palpitate and brought him a fortune, was married to Miss Webb, daughter of the police chief of Santa Monica, Calif., at West Orange, N. J., last Monday, but the news was not made public until last night.

Rudy met Miss Webb, an attractive brunette, for the first time in 1929, although their mothers had been childhood schoolmates in Canada. He was in Hollywood making the picture "The Vagabond Lover."

Rudy's radio and other engagements will keep the couple in New York where he is appearing with his orchestra nightly at the Pennsylvania Roof, broadcasting every Thursday.

Recently the radio star leased a 14-room apartment on the fourteenth floor at 55 Central Park west, and furnished it in lavish fashion. It was from the windows of their apartment that the bride and groom looked down last night on a crowd of curious persons who gathered in front of the building after the news of the marriage had been published.

Reporters and photographers were told by the doorman that "Mr. Vallee cannot be disturbed at this time." The marriage ceremony was performed by Police Judge Herbert Lightfoot of West Orange, with a few friends as witnesses. Edwin Scheuing, Rudy's business manager, acted as best man and Mrs. Herbert Schmidt of Hoboken was bridesmaid. William Vallee, Rudy's younger brother, and Hyman Bughel, his attorney, also were present.

The orchestra leader gave his age as 29 and Miss Webb, 23. It was Rudy's second marriage. In 1928, before he had sprung to overnight prominence, he was married to Leonie Cauchois. She had the marriage annulled three months later.

SOLICITATION OF LEGAL BUSINESS TO BE UNETHICAL

NEW RULE IS ADOPTED BY THE STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

REGULATION APPROVED BY THE CONVENTION AFTER A HEATED DEBATE

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—(U.P.)—Solicitation of legal business will be unethical in Minnesota under a new rule adopted by the State Bar Association.

The proposed regulation was included in a report of the ethics committee which was read before the annual convention late yesterday. After a heated debate, the report was adopted and the state supreme court will be requested to include the new canon in rules governing the conduct of attorneys.

The new regulation, as approved by the convention, reads: "An attorney shall not directly or indirectly solicit a retainer, or employment, to present, settle, prosecute or defend any claim or action."

"An attorney shall not directly or indirectly employ another to solicit or obtain or remunerate another for soliciting or obtaining professional employment for him; nor shall he directly or indirectly share with an unlicensed person compensation arising out of or incident to professional employment; nor shall he directly or indirectly aid or abet an unlicensed person to practice law or to receive compensation from such practice; nor shall he knowingly accept professional employment on behalf of a claimant in a case offered to him as a result of, or as an incident to, the activities of an unlicensed person who, for compensation, controls, directs or influences such employment."

Tom Davis, Minneapolis, political advisor of Senator Thomas Schall, led the opposition to the new rule. He charged it would leave persons injured in railroad or other accidents at the mercy of claim agents.

"If an attorney cannot solicit this business, victims of accidents will not be apprised of their legal right, which will be misrepresented to them by claim agents," Davis said. "There will be many abuses and settlements made in which those injured will not receive their full rights."

W. Henderson, Minneapolis, offered an amendment to exempt commercial attorneys from the new ruling against solicitation. The amendment was defeated.

Defending the proposal, Frank Kidder, St. Paul, said that the same ethics in matters of solicitation should apply to the legal profession as now apply in the medical profession.

The action was aimed directly at alleged ambulance chasing or solicitation of accident victims.

prominence, he was married to Leonie Cauchois. She had the marriage annulled three months later.

ROBBER STEALS HER WATCH, PURSE AND PROTECTING GUN

Evansville, Ind., July 9.—(U.P.)—Miss Virginia Lydenbach left her bedroom window open so she could sleep during the hot weather. #### LEADERS IN KANSAS GAS RATE FIGHT ARE UNRUFFLED

PAY NO ATTENTION TO BROADSIDE AIMED BY HENRY L. DOHERTY

GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES MARSHALLED FOR THE STRUGGLE

Kansas City, Mo., July 9.—(U.P.)—Unruffled by the scathing verbal broadside Henry L. Doherty aimed at them, leaders in the Kansas gas rate fight today pressed their campaign with calm determination.

Harry Woodring, dynamic young governor of Kansas, who came to grips with the billion dollar Cities Service organization over its rates in nearly 100 cities and towns of his state, marshaled governmental agencies at Topeka for the struggle with Doherty.

"We will succeed in perfectly legal and orderly way," Woodring said in answer to a telegram from Doherty describing the campaign as one of "persecution, coercion and mud-slinging."

The Kansas City Star which threw its support behind Woodring, reiterated the demand that gas rates be reduced and prepared to meet a $250,000 libel suit that is to be filed by Doherty's attorneys.

"Attention must not be diverted from the main issue—that of exorbitant gas rates—by personalities or legal smoke screens," said George Longan, publisher of the Star.

The struggle over Kansas gas rates flared into open warfare when Woodring instructed the state public service commission and the attorney-general of Kansas to proceed with every legal power at their command to force a reduction.

"I have the utmost confidence in our ultimate success," Woodring told the United Press.

"Why?" Because Doherty for the first time will have to justify the forty cent charged by his pipe line company to subsidaries serving the various cities and towns.

"They've never had to do that before, but they must now."

"This fight for a lower gas rate is not a question of politics but is in response to public sentiment."

"Public opinion on matters of government, business and industry have made vast changes in the last thirty or forty years."

"Too many public service officials have not realized the significance of that evolution. We think and do things differently today from yesterday, and it is a matter of good sense rather than politics to give expression to those changes."

At his desk in the editorial room of the Star, Longan, a veteran of more than three decades with that paper, explained its part in the gas rate fight.

"The Star has but one concern in the controversy," Longan said. "That is to obtain lower gas rates for the towns and cities in Kansas."

Parker, although still in serious condition, was expected to recover.

FAIL TO CONTACT WITH REFUELING PLANE TODAY

"FORT WORTH" DESCENDS AT SOLOMAN, FOG BLOCKED AIR REFUELING

ROBBINS AND JONES HAD COMPLETED 1,900-MILE FLIGHT FROM SEATTLE

Nome, Alaska, July 9.—(U.P.)—The courageous flight of Reg Robbins and Harold Jones, who attempted to reach Japan from Seattle without stopping, ended here today when they were forced to land after attempt to contact their refueling plane failed.

The monoplane Fort Worth landed at Solomon, 35 miles east of here, at 3:50 A. M. (8:50 A. M. CST.) after dense fog and rain made it impossible to refuel in the air.

The fliers had completed a 1,900-mile flight from Seattle, with almost clocklike precision and through the first day of their attempted flight from Seattle to Tokyo, their plans went through perfectly as scheduled.

The heavy fog and rain they encountered after they left Fairbanks early this morning, however, brought disaster and the flight ended a little less than half way on the 5,100-mile journey.

The trim little yellow and white monoplane circled from Solomon to Nome for nearly two hours, with the big tri-motor mother ship piloted by Nick Greener and Jim Mattern hovering above them, before they finally admitted defeat and brought the ship to the ground.

The tri-motor landed two minutes later.

Robbins and Jones crawled gloomily from the cabin after nearly 26 hours in the air. They were intensely disappointed that their flight which had gone so auspiciously should end before it was even half completed. The fog and the rain added to the gloom of the picture of failure which the fliers presented.

To Robbins it meant that his chance for the $25,000 prize offered by a Japanese newspaper for the first non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokyo, was gone. To Jones it meant the end of a glorious adventure.

It was the rain and fog and the unexpected change which defeated the fliers, but as Jones expressed it as he stepped from the Fort Worth, "If the flight hadn't ended here it probably would have ended soon anyway."

"We couldn't have gone far in this weather, anyway," Jones ruefully remarked. "The breaks were against us—and just when we thought everything was going so smoothly too."

The fliers encountered their first difficulties soon after they left Fairbanks last night and headed for Nome. Clouds which had been high permitting almost unlimited visibility, began closing down on them, and conditions became worse as they neared the coast.

They thought, however, that the fog would rise with the increasing brightness of the sun, and that they might continue their journey after filling their gasoline tanks for the hop across Bering sea.

Robbins and Jones had been confident from the start that they could make the flight, given an even break with the weather. Their failure to complete the trip was a hard blow. Dejected they were when they climbed from the plane but Robbins' well-known smile soon crept back to his face and he said:

"Well, better luck next time. Sure, we'll try again."

Nome, Alaska, July 9.—After making the 1,900-mile flight from Seattle to Nome with clock-like precision, Reg Robbins, "Old Man Endurance From Texas," and Harold S. Jones, the flying oil magnate, ran into their first "bad luck" today when they encountered rain and fog.

For two hours they circled over this last outpost of North America without being able to make contact with their big refueling plane.

The trim white monoplane appeared over Nome first at 2 A. M. (7 A. M. CST.) and headed toward the northwest and the Bering Strait.

It had been reported erroneously that a refueling contact had been made at Solomon, 35 miles east of here, and observers believed that the Fort Worth had left Nome for the treacherous 2,800-mile trip down the coast of Siberia to Tokyo.

Some time later, however, the Fort Worth reappeared in the fog and the refueler came over from the east. They circled slowly over Nome, trying to get the refueling hose attached to the Fort Worth but two hours later this had not yet been accomplished.

The fog was heavy and visibility poor.

Nome, Alaska, July 9.—Halfway on its adventurous flight from Seattle to Tokyo, the monoplane Fort Worth arrived over Nome at 5 A. M. PST. (7 A. M. CST.) today.

The yellow and white Lockheed-Vega plane arrived over the city in the early morning twilight after a flight from Fairbanks where the ship had been refueled in mid-air.

Reginald Robbins, who helped set an endurance record with a second hand "crate," and H. S. Jones, wealthy Texas oil man, had brought their

CROONER VALLEE
AND BRIDE FAR
FROM THE CROWDSHONEYMOONING IN LUXURIOUS APARTMENT IN NEW YORKMET BRIDE WHEN HE WAS MAK-ING PICTURE "THE VAGABOND LOVER"

New York, July 9.—(U.P.)—Rudy Vallee and his bride, the former Fay Webb, actress, were honeymooning in a luxurious uptown apartment today; seeking to elude questioners and curious crowds.

The orchestra leader, whose radio crooning made the hearts of countless feminine listeners palpitate and brought him a fortune, was married to Miss Webb, daughter of the police chief of Santa Monica, Calif., at West Orange, N. J., last Monday, but the news was not made public until last night.

Rudy met Miss Webb, an attractive brunette, for the first time in 1929, although their mothers had been childhood schoolmates in Canada. He was in Hollywood making the picture "The Vagabond Lover."

Rudy's radio and other engagements will keep the couple in New York where he is appearing with his orchestra nightly at the Pennsylvania Roof, broadcasting every Thursday.

Recently the radio star leased a 14-room apartment on the fourteenth floor at 55 Central Park west, and furnished it in lavish fashion. It was from the windows of their apartment that the bride and groom looked down last night on a crowd of curious persons who gathered in front of the building after the news of the marriage had been published.

Reporters and photographers were told by the doorman that "Mr. Vallee cannot be disturbed at this time."

The marriage ceremony was performed by Police Judge Herbert Light of West Orange, with a few friends as witnesses. Edwin Scheuing, Rudy's business manager, acted as best man and Mrs. Herbert Schmidt of Hoboken was bridesmaid. William Vallee, Rudy's younger brother, and Hyman Busghel, his attorney, also were present.

The orchestra leader gave his age as 29 and Miss Webb, 23. It was Rudy's second marriage. In 1928, he was married to Leonie Cauchoz. She had the marriage annulled three months later.

SOLICITATION OF LEGAL BUSINESS
TO BE UNETHICALNEW RULE IS ADOPTED BY THE
STATE BAR ASSO-
CIATIONREGULATION APPROVED BY THE CONVENTION AFTER A HEATED DEBATE

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—(U.P.)—Solicitation of legal business will be unethical in Minnesota under a new rule adopted by the State Bar Association.

The proposed regulation was included in a report of the ethics committee which was read before the annual convention late yesterday. After a heated debate, the report was adopted and the state supreme court will be requested to include the new canon in rules governing the conduct of attorneys.

The new regulation, as approved by the convention, reads:

"An attorney shall not directly or indirectly solicit a retainer, or employment, to present, settle, prosecute or defend any claim or action.

"An attorney shall not directly or indirectly employ another to solicit or obtain or remunerate another for soliciting or obtaining professional employment for him; nor shall he directly or indirectly share with an unlicensed person compensation arising out of or incident to professional employment; nor shall he directly or indirectly aid or abet an unlicensed person to practice law or to receive compensation from such practice; nor shall he knowingly accept professional employment on behalf of a claimant in a case offered to him as a result of, or as an incident to, the activities of an unlicensed person who, for compensation, controls, directs or influences such employment."

Tom Davis, Minneapolis, political advisor of Senator Thomas Schall, led the opposition to the new rule. He charged it would leave persons injured in railroad or other accidents at the mercy of claim agents.

"If an attorney cannot solicit this business, victims of accidents will not be apprised of their legal right, which will be misrepresented to them by claim agents," Davis said. "There will be many abuses and settlements made in which those injured will not receive their full rights."

W. Henderson, Minneapolis, offered an amendment to exempt commercial attorneys from the new ruling against solicitation. The amendment was defeated.

Defending the proposal, Frank Kidder, St. Paul, said that the same ethics in matters of solicitation should apply to the legal profession as now apply in the medical profession.

The action was aimed directly at alleged ambulance chasing or solicitation of accident victims.

prominence, he was married to Leonie Cauchoz. She had the marriage annulled three months later.

LEADERS IN KANSAS
GAS RATE FIGHT
ARE UNRUFFLEDPAY NO ATTENTION TO BROAD-
SIDE AIMED BY HENRY
L. DOHERTYGOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES
MARSHALLED FOR THE STRUGGLE

Kansas City, Mo., July 9.—(U.P.)—Unruffled by the scathing verbal broadside Henry L. Doherty aimed at them, leaders in the Kansas gas rate fight today pressed their campaign with calm determination.

Harry Woodring, dynamic young governor of Kansas, who came to grips with the billion dollar Cities Service organization over its rates in nearly 100 cities and towns of his state, marshaled governmental agencies at Topeka for the struggle with Doherty.

"We will succeed in perfectly legal and orderly way," Woodring said in answer to a telegram from Doherty describing the campaign as one of "persecution, coercion and mud-slinging."

The Kansas City Star which threw its support behind Woodring, reiterated the demand that gas rates be reduced and prepared to meet a $250,000 libel suit that is to be filed by Doherty's attorneys.

"Attention must not be diverted from the main issue—that of exorbitant gas rates—by personalities or legal smoke screens," said George Longan, publisher of the Star.

The struggle over Kansas gas rates flared into open warfare when Woodring instructed the state public service commission and the attorney-general of Kansas to proceed with every legal power at their command to force a reduction.

"I have the utmost confidence in our ultimate success," Woodring told the United Press.

"Why?" Because Doherty for the first time will have to justify the forty cent charged by his pipe line company to subsidiaries serving the various cities and towns.

"They've never had to do that before, but they must now."

"This fight for a lower gas rate is not a question of politics but is in response to public sentiment."

"Public opinion on matters of government, business and industry have made vast changes in the last thirty or forty years."

"Too many public service officials have not realized the significance of that evolution. We think and do things differently today from yesterday, and it is a matter of good sense rather than politics to give expression to those changes."

At his desk in the editorial room of the Star, Longan, a veteran of more than three decades with that paper, explained its part in the gas rate fight.

"The Star has but one concern in the controversy," Longan said. "That is to obtain lower gas rates for the towns and cities in Kansas."

FAIL TO CONTACT WITH REFUELING
PLANE TODAY"FORT WORTH" DESCENDS AT SOLOMAN, FOG BLOCKED
AIR REFUELINGROBBINS AND JONES HAD COM-
PLETED 1,900-MILE FLIGHT
FROM SEATTLE

Nome, Alaska, July 9.—(U.P.)—The courageous flight of Reg Robbins and Harold Jones, who attempted to reach Japan from Seattle without stopping, ended here today when they were forced to land after attempts to contact their refueling plane failed.

The monoplane Fort Worth landed at Solomon, 35 miles east of here, at 3:50 A. M. (8:50 A. M. CST.) after dense fog and rain made it impossible to refuel in the air.

The fliers had completed a 1,900-mile flight from Seattle, with almost clocklike precision and through the first day of their attempted flight from Seattle to Tokyo, their plans went through perfectly as scheduled.

The heavy fog and rain they encountered after they left Fairbanks early this morning, however, brought disaster and the flight ended a little less than half way on the 5,100-mile journey.

The trim little yellow and white monoplane circled from Solomon to Nome for nearly two hours, with the big tri-motor mother ship piloted by Nick Greener and Jim Mattern hovering above them, before they finally admitted defeat and brought the ship to the ground.

The tri-motor landed two minutes later.

Robbins and Jones crawled gloomily from the cabin after nearly 26 hours in the air. They were intensely disappointed that their flight which had gone so auspiciously should end before it was even half completed. The fog and the rain added to the gloom of the picture of failure which the fliers presented.

To Robbins it meant that his chance for the $25,000 prize offered by a Japanese newspaper for the first non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokyo, was gone. To Jones it meant the end of a glorious adventure.

It was the rain and fog and the unexpected change which defeated the fliers, but as Jones expressed it as he stepped from the Fort Worth, "If the flight hadn't ended here it probably would have ended soon anyway."

"We couldn't have gone far in this weather, anyway," Jones ruefully remarked. "The breaks were against us—and just when we thought everything was going so smoothly too."

The fliers encountered their first difficulties soon after they left Fairbanks last night and headed for Nome. Clouds which had been high permitting almost unlimited visibility, began closing down on them, and conditions became worse as they neared the coast.

They thought, however, that the fog would rise with the increasing brightness of the sun, and that they might continue their journey after filling their gasoline tanks for the hop across Bering sea.

Robbins and Jones had been confident from the start that they could make the flight, given an even break with the weather. Their failure to complete the trip was a hard blow. Dejected they were when they climbed from the plane but Robbins' well-known smile soon crept back to his face and he said:

"Well, better luck next time. Sure, we'll try again."

Nome, Alaska, July 9.—After making the 1,900-mile flight from Seattle to Nome with clock-like precision, Reg Robbins, "Old Man Endurance From Texas," and Harold S. Jones, the flying oil magnate, ran into their first "bad luck" today when they encountered rain and fog.

For two hours they circled over this last outpost of North America without being able to make contact with their big refueling plane.

The trim white monoplane appeared over Nome first at 2 A. M. (7 A. M. CST.) and headed toward the northwest and the Bering Strait.

It had been reported erroneously that a refueling contact had been made at Solomon, 35 miles east of here, and observers believed that the Fort Worth had left Nome for the treacherous 2,800-mile trip down the coast of Siberia to Tokyo.

Some time later, however, the Fort Worth reappeared in the fog and the refueler came over from the east. They circled slowly over Nome, trying to get the refueling hose attached to the Fort Worth but two hours later this had not yet been accomplished.

The fog was heavy and visibility poor.

Nome, Alaska, July 9.—Halfway on its adventurous flight from Seattle to Tokyo, the monoplane Fort Worth arrived over Nome at 5 A. M. PST. (7 A. M. CST.) today.

The yellow and white Lockheed-Vega plane arrived over the city in the early morning twilight after a flight from Fairbanks where the ship had been refueled in mid-air.

Reginald Robbins, who helped set an endurance record with a second hand "crate," and H. S. Jones, wealthy Texas oil man, had brought their

MINUS HER AGENT

No Publicity Stunt Necessary for French Miss When She Came to Brainerd

Fifi Dorsay didn't bathe in the fountain at Gregory park or get arrested.

Fifi didn't climb to the top of the city water tower.

The oo-la-la mommys didn't even say "Ah thees is Brainerd."

But the French Canadian Montreal girl who has made all America want to see Paree did make a hit in this town without the blandishments of her press agent.

The French cutie who rocks 'em from the screen made an informal visit to Brainerd last evening accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Fawcett of Breezy Point.

The screen star chatted with several Brainerd people in the Ransford hotel lobby. She arrived at the hotel just as the Lions were completing their meeting. The members expressed happiness at meeting her.

One member gave his impressions after meeting her:

"Ah she ees sweet. I like her so verree much."

BRAINERD
25 Years Ago

July 9, 1906

In a church handsomely decorated with flowers and crowded with the members of the church and congregation Rev. B. E. Luttamm, of Cedar Lake, preached a powerful sermon yesterday at the installation of Rev. C. Kollmorgen as pastor of the German Lutheran church.

The new pastor comes from Meyers, Carver county, Minn., where he has had excellent success in the work. Mr. Kollmorgen's family arrived Friday night and occupied the parsonage adjoining the church, Saturday.

Another fire of unknown origin occurred last night in the building occupied by Even J. Rhone at 818 Laurel street. The fire was discovered by Officer Barney and an alarm turned in shortly before 2 o'clock this morning.

The damage to the building was comparatively light, being principally from water. Mr. Rhone sets his damage to stock at $100 from fire and water. He had no insurance. The boys got a stream of water on the blaze in a hurry and the fire was soon disposed of, pressure being carried less than an hour.

Rev. P. G. Nelson has received a flattering call from the Swedish Baptist church in Kiron, Ia., but has decided to remain in Brainerd, although the financial inducements were much greater than they are here.

Lee Thomas has resigned his position with H. A. Rollins and has accepted one with the Elmer Wilkinson, National Hotel barbershop.

Mal Clark and Kenneth Ribble went to Hubert today to join Carl Wright and a couple of friends who are camping out there.

Mrs. N. H. Ingersoll, Mrs. F. W. Wieland and Miss Bessie, Miss McMullen and Stanley Smith came down from Hubert today.

Mrs. Belle Paine, of South Ninth street, and Miss Bessie Paine left today for Kansas City where they will make their future home with a daughter of Mrs. Paine.

DR. J. A. THABES SPEAKS AT ROTARY

President of State Board of Health
Tells of the Work of the Association

NEW OFFICERS IN CLUB

Pres. Hal Day in Final Talk; Vice-President Whitney Takes Charge

Dr. J. A. Thabes, Sr., president of the State Board of Health, was the speaker at the Rotary club meeting Tuesday. He was introduced by Vice President D. E. Whitney, one of the new officers of the administration of President Carl Zappe, effective July 1.

"We are living in an age of progress," said Dr. Thabes. "Medicine and sanitary science have made great advances. The progress effected in the last 25 years is astounding."

Diseases rife in the day of the Civil War and Spanish-American War have been overcome and now one seldom sees or hears of many typhoid cases, etc. There is no tetanus. In the World War each soldier carried serum and there were few if any cases of the disease.

The Panama Canal became a reality after medical science of America first conquered yellow fever. Few realize the important part played by medicine and sanitary science in our daily lives.

The State Board of Health, said Dr. Thabes, is composed of nine members appointed by the governor. Seven or eight of them are doctors and one or two engineers. The term of appointment is two years. They have a free hand in conducting their business. An appropriation is supplied by the legislature. They serve without pay. The board, however, has a paid secretary.

The Minnesota Public Health Association is supported by Christmas seals and the State Board of Health cooperates with the association wherever possible.

The State Board of Health is divided into six departments. There is first the division of administration.

Hotel inspection, another division, has an inspector in charge and a number of deputies. It is a large task in northern Minnesota where in addition to hotels and restaurants, tourist camps, resorts, etc., are inspected. Water supply, milk, food, etc., are carefully inspected.

The division of preventable diseases is important. At the University of Minnesota there is a laboratory to which specimens and cultures can be sent to be examined free of charge. The state has gained the reputation of being foremost in rank in sanitary work. Any signs of smallpox, diphtheria, typhoid, etc., are quickly checked. It is almost a disgrace now for any city to have a lot of typhoid cases.

The division of child hygiene concerns itself with child mortality, maternal welfare, etc. A child born today has a chance to live 55 to 60 years. Sanitary science is conducted by trained engineers and takes care of water supplies of municipalities. Sewage disposal is one of the problems combated.

Vital statistics are important. Up to 40 years ago not much attention was paid to compiling these statistics. Now they represent an important part of the State Board of Health work.

There are 12,000 Indians in Minnesota, said the doctor, and they are increasing in numbers. This is due largely to the State Board of Health and the Minnesota Public Health Association who are concerned with their welfare. Indian girls are educated in training schools and work as nurses among their own people. Last year the clinic examined a thousand Indians. They freely submit to blood tests, X-ray examinations, etc.

The work of the State Board of Health, in short, is to protect the people from disease and to make large cities, communities and rural centers better places in which to live, said Dr. Thabes in conclusion.

Walter Dewey, an attorney from Chariton, Iowa, spoke humorously of a cure for business depression.

It was a great day for visitors, 14 being present and including Rotarians and others from Algona, Ia.; Brownsville, Mo.; Chariton, Ia.; Manhattan, Kansas; Fairbault, St. Paul, Minneapolis; Hutchinson, Kansas; Des Moines, Iowa; Pawhuska, Okla.

President Hal Day, retiring executive, thanked officers, committee men and members for the aid they had given him in his administration. Vice President Whitney spoke briefly.

ALFALFA GOOD GRAIN FOUNDATION

State Experimental Field Proves Excellent Basis for Grain

Alfalfa, a high grade of fodder, is proven conclusively at the State Experimental Station at Crow Wing as the best basis for crops on sandy soil and is particularly adaptable to this county.

The soil at the field shows, as is the case in many parts of the county, a distinct deficiency of nitrogen which alfalfa provides in place of commercial fertilizers.

Crops planted after a first yield of alfalfa show an unusually good yield. The experiment at the governmental field covers chiefly rye, oats, barley and field peas.

The experiment reveals that the first crop after alfalfa is the best and that the second crop is cut 50 percent. Where no alfalfa had been the crops are practically negligible.

Use of nitrate of soda as fertilizer reveals fine returns in crops. Alfalfa acts in the capacity of nitrate, eliminating the cost of the fertilizer.

Dr. F. J. Alway, chief of the soil division of the University of Minnesota, visited the ten acre field this morning to view the experimental work. He has devoted most of his life to scientific research of soil. He is known throughout the world as a soils expert.

Various applications of nitrate of soda are seen in the growth of grains at the farm. Each shows a different growth. In the platted rows the grain varies considerable in size from those treated with 50 pounds of nitrate per acre to those treated to as high as 200 pounds of nitrate of soda to the acre.

A "Back to the Farm" Movement Gains Ground

AN indication in the "back to the farm" movement is shown by the fact that farm sales have doubled during the month of May, 1931, as compared with May, 1930, as stated by F. H. Klawon, president of the Federal Land Bank at St. Paul.

Klawon said he believed that farm sales for June would show a like increase, and this increase would show a further gain for the movement.

Klawon, in summarizing the activities of the land bank, arrived at the following conclusions:

Farms right now are bargains. Prices of agricultural commodities will not always remain low. Good farms will produce more than a living. Value of farm property will be stabilized at a higher value than now.

He said that the 1,392,000 persons who left the farm in 1930 were attracted to the cities by higher wages. The unemployment situation, a more general appreciation of farming as a vocation and the fact that good farms, even at present low commodity prices, will produce a living are all factors in the movement that is now taking place.

"The farm real estate price pendulum seems to have swung too far and the time to buy property, of course, is when it is relatively cheap and you are assured of a low overhead," said Mr. Klawon.

In Crow Wing county prices of farm lands, improved or unimproved, are very reasonable and one finds transfers of property effected. New people are coming to the county, attracted by the price of farm land, the good roads, summer cash markets for many products, and the general reliability of the county in never having total crop failures. With diversity in farming being the general rule, there is always something to "carry the farmer through." One year it was potatoes that assisted, another year it was hay, and generally dairy products are always a basic factor. In farming one should strike a general average, take the lean years with the prosperous ones, in order to get definite results on overhead and income. Then, also, there is something that some farmers do not figure on much, but is an important factor, too, and that is that crop diversifying and intelligent farming increase the value of the land.

Safeguarding Liberty

REDEDICATING the tomb of the martyred Lincoln at Springfield, Illinois, President Hoover took occasion to remind the American people of the great privilege of safeguarding liberty and obedience to the law.

He said in part, "As we scan our history, ever since his day, who can doubt Lincoln's own words that our national heritage is 'worth the keeping.' And it was Lincoln who stated and restated in impressive terms that its keeping rests upon obedience and enforcement of the law. There can be no man in our country who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law. That, the Republic can not admit and still live. For ours is a government of laws and a society of ordered liberty safeguarded by law."

THE trend of population to the cities, where labor is less arduous and diets are more varied and of higher caloric content is listed among the causes for an increase in diabetes and a consequent rising mortality from this disease, according to the Statistical Bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Thanks to the use of insulin and to the general improvement in the treatment of the disease, patients are better able to avoid coma, formerly the chief danger to them. Furthermore, when coma does develop, the chances for recovery are now excellent.

SEIZING a gigantic still on a farm near Mankato is evidence that such plants would not exist if there were no market for the bootleg liquor manufactured. There must be a big thirst somewhere to absorb so much alcohol, for the still had a capacity of 250 gallons daily.

WITH a few more Lindberghs, Posts and Gattys, time and distance will be annihilated. There will be no more waste places, no more unknown territory to fly over. The only thing left to worry about will be to find a place to park one's car.

"OLD IRONSIDES" has started a tour which includes visits to 18 Atlantic ports. Early this month is the first time in 34 years the 134-year-old frigate had left Boston navy yard, where she has been recommissioned.

WITH the advent of summer and warmer weather there has been a sharp swing to vacations and other recreation which requires travel. Heavier passenger business is being recorded on the Northern Pacific and Minnesota & International railways.

EARLE BROWN, chief of the State Highway Patrol, has acquired a Vermont oak team that he will drive at the diamond jubilee homecoming at Elk River. The oxen are at present grazing in the lot of Mr. Brown's Mille Lacs lake ranch.

THE 1931 wool crop sold at Verndale last week amounted to 192,736 pounds or five carloads, but it brought a low price. The wool graded low because of dry weather and market conditions were not good either.

THOSE who feel inclined to kick upon the warm weather this summer should call to mind the summer of 1859, says the Anoka Herald. On July 4th an inch of snow fell in Minnesota, at least that is the story told by the pioneers.

NEW records have been made by motorists in the amount of gasoline used in Minnesota and the amount of gasoline tax paid, according to the state oil inspector.

CORN is growing fine in Crow Wing county. Of course the stalks never get as tall as down in Iowa, but the crop matures and is a valuable part of any farm's income.

IN the next four months Russia expects to harvest her largest wheat crop. All the world will scan the procedure and its effect on world prices.

MINNESOTA's department of agriculture has acted promptly and commendably to check a threatened large invasion of grasshoppers.

2 WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP BOUTS, ONE OF THEM OFFICIAL

JACK SHARKEY TO FIGHT MICKEY WALKER, BROOKLYN, JULY 22

New York, July 9.—(AP)—With the completion of arrangements for a bout between Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera, two world heavyweight championship fights, one of them official only insofar as the New York State athletic commission is concerned, are on the program for the outdoor boxing season within the next few months.

The first of the "championship" affairs, arranged by the New York body after dethroning Max Schmeling of the heavyweight title, will take place at the Waldorf Astoria, Brooklyn, July 22 with Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker as the principals. The other bout, bringing Schmeling, present champion, and Carnera together probably will be held in September at Jersey City. Arrangements for the fight were completed yesterday. The Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois will promote the battle.

Philadelphia and Chicago also have been included in the list of probable sites for the Schmeling-Carnera go.

Games were played Wednesday at the municipal field.

The last game of the season in the tourney at St. Cloud is to establish the winner and representative to the state baseball meet at Stillwater the latter part of the month.

Following the crash of his plane in Joan Marbury's Florida orange groves, young and wealthy Dave Ordway is content with the peaceful life on the plantation that is a contrast to his former pleasure-seeking existence. Adventure awaits him here, however. Mueller, brutal owner of the adjoining groves, is trying to force his attentions upon Joan. He robs Dave and burns his plane because Dave refuses his demands for damage to Mueller's property in landing. Joan's cousin, Sally, who lives on the plantation, is in love with Dave, but he is more attracted by the reserved Joan. When Dave's erstwhile fiancée, Barbara Holworthy, and his friends, Gerry Fleming and Talbot Henderson, visit him, he is aware of the antagonism among the girls. Gerry recognizes Mueller as "Snatch" Cazzoni, a bootlegger. The boys leave to steal Mueller's plane to replace Dave's. They discover Mueller's liquor store. Fearing trouble Dave has Talbot return to warn the girls to stay at home. They disregard the warning.

CHAPTER XXII
ET'S have the flashlight, Talbot," he said, coming to a halt. "This place is dark as a cow's stomach."

"Why—er—I forgot to bring it," said Talbot, lamely. "Aren't you the little help?" sighed Dave. "I've got a good mind to take you both home and come back here alone."

"Come here, Talbot," said Gerry, ominously, "and kiss papa." Talbot promptly moved out of reach. Gerry's stealthy footsteps could be heard pursuing him through the blackness.

"Listen, you birds!" whispered Dave, tensely. "There's something going on outside." The three stood silent. From the open door behind them came the sound of a popping engine, the grinding of gears. Dave blundered through the gloom, entering one of the great rooms which faced the house nearest the landing field.

A Stone's Throw
"Come here, fellows," he called guardedly. "It's Mueller's truck coming through the road in the jungle."

Talbot, eluding Gerry's groping arms, hurried to the window, followed by the other, who cursed wholeheartedly as he crashed into the door jamb. They stood at the empty frame of the French window, watching the headlights circle the liquor-filled dwelling that the boys had so recently examined. Two men suddenly appeared in front of the lights and disappeared into the darkness of the patio. The truck came to a stop, its twin cones of incandescence pointed directly at the breach in the walled enclosure. Two more black figures dashed across the strip of light and followed the others into the house.

"From where I stand," Talbot muttered unhappily, "this strip of Cathay looks crowded. Turn on those street lights and it'll seem as if boom times have struck it again. I'll bet there'll be a real estate office open here in the morning. But I won't be here to see it. Those babies over there have been eating red meat. We'd better go."

"Count 'em for me, Talbot," requested Gerry. "If there aren't any more than I think there are over there, I can lick 'em all."

"I've got a good mind to throw you out of the window and let you try it," whispered Dave, savagely. "A twentieth century Daniel in the lions' den," sniggered Talbot. "If Daniel had had a couple of swallows of Mueller's liquor," retorted Gerry, thickly, "he'd have wrung the lions' necks and gotten himself elected mayor of Rome. Or was it Rome? Maybe it was Athens. I never could remember my . . ."

Ready to Strike
"Shut up, you garrulous souse!" snapped Dave. "Turn, turning to Talbot, 'Tell you what we'll do. We'll all beat it back to Gerry's car. You fellows drive on to Joan's and drop me off half-way. I'll duck through the groves, cut around behind Mueller's men and have another look at the hangar. Chances are that it is still unguarded. They all seem to be milling around here."

"I'm going to smack Mueller," announced Gerry, stubbornly. "Let me finish," urged Dave, impatiently. "I'll try to get the plane according to our plan. You and Gerry had better stay right on at Joan's until I drive back from St. Pete. They won't be safe there with Mueller on the loose."

"I was talking to Sally about coming back to St. Pete with us," confided Talbot. "She wants to come. Perhaps she can persuade her cousin."

"Fast worker, Talbot," hiccupped Gerry. "You don't think I see things, but I do. I could see you getting all limp every time little Black Eyes looked at you."

Dave stared sharply at Talbot. "She's a wonderful girl," said Talbot, defensively. "She makes the girls in our crowd seem like dumb Doves."

Gerry threw an uncertain leg over the window sill. "I'm going to lick Mueller," he declared. "I can lick his whole gang. I can lick anybody who lives around here."

Dave grabbed his shoulder and jerked him back into the room. "We'll have to get out of here, Talbot," he said, before this idiot ruins everything. Come on, Gerry. When I come back from St. Pete, we'll take on the whole gang for a battle royal."

Gerry seemed slightly mollified. He made no reply, but leaned against the wall, trying to focus his eyes upon the vivid scene at the other house.

More men were now milling about in the beams of the headlights. The dwelling, which but a few minutes before, had been a dead, deserted thing, was now alive with dancing flashlights, echoing with shouting voices. "Come on," whispered Dave. "They'll be coming over this way in a few minutes."

"Give me your shotgun, Talbot," said Dave. "You'll be dropping it, or firing it by accident, or something."

"What shotgun?" asked Talbot. "The one we took away from that guard!" retorted Dave. "How many have you?"

Talbot's heavy body could be heard moving away in the darkness.

"Er—I must have left it in the first house," he said apologetically. "If it takes me all evening," declared Gerry, heatedly, "I'm going to find that place and loop him all over the blimp."

"Go away, Gerry!" came Talbot's agitated voice. "Go away or I'll tell Dave what's in your hip pocket."

"Sash!" warned Dave. "I think I hear something. Be quiet!" The others became still and followed Dave through the room toward the patch of utter blackness that was the door. Even Gerry moved quietly, his befogged mind intent upon the prospect of imminent action.

As they filed through the arched doorway to the hall, Dave came to an abrupt halt. To his alert ears came the soft tread of footsteps, the hiss of suddenly withdrawn breath. Gerry lurched into him, then became tense as he, too, heard the alien sounds. Talbot crept up on amazingly silent feet and stopped beside his companions, his restraining hand on Gerry's tense arm.

Stepped for Action
Gerry shook off the hands of the two men who held him. He moved forward, his muscles quivering like those of a race horse at the barrier. Dave stepped ahead through the darkness, straining his eyes and ears to try to locate the enemy before leaping into battle.

He heard the well-oiled click of a safety catch. There, a dozen feet away, a close-knit group of black shadows were advancing toward the three men. Dave leaped, arms outstretched for instant action. His hurtling body shouldered Gerry aside. Then he crashed into the nearest of the black figures. A hot, searing flame stroked past his cheek. The report of the gun almost deafened him. His arms closed about a lithe, slender body, which struggled like a wild thing through the biting odor of gunpowder and the sweetish smell of gun oil there was a faint fragrance of jasmine. He staggered, trying to recover his balance and so to hold that slender body from crashing to the floor.

"Joan!" he gasped. And then, in a swift, unreasoning impulse, he kissed her full on the lips. The rigid body which had, an instant ago, been fighting desperately, went suddenly limp in his arms. The blackness surrounded them as though he and Joan were alone in an infinity of space. He had forgotten the others, had forgotten the searching men, had forgotten everything but the unbelievable fragrance of those lovely lips crushed so hard against his own.

There was a terrific thud as a heavy body struck the floor. A shrill shriek split the air.

"Miss Joan, Miss Joan! Where is you? Dey's a man got me!" (To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

A "Back to the Farm" Movement Gains Ground

AN indication in the "back to the farm" movement is shown by the fact that farm sales have doubled during the month of May, 1931, as compared with May, 1930, as stated by F. H. Klawon, president of the Federal Land Bank at St. Paul.

Klawon said he believed that farm sales for June would show a like increase, and this increase would show a further gain for the movement.

Klawon, in summarizing the activities of the land bank, arrived at the following conclusions:

Farms right now are bargains. Prices of agricultural commodities will not always remain low. Good farms will produce more than a living. Value of farm property will be stabilized at a higher value than now.

He said that the 1,392,000 persons who left the farm in 1930 were attracted to the cities by higher wages. The unemployment situation, a more general appreciation of farming as a vocation and the fact that good farms, even at present low commodity prices, will produce a living are all factors in the movement that is now taking place.

"The farm real estate price pendulum seems to have swung too far and the time to buy property, of course, is when it is relatively cheap and you are assured of a low overhead," said Mr. Klawon.

In Crow Wing county prices of farm lands, improved or unimproved, are very reasonable and one finds transfers of property effected. New people are coming to the county, attracted by the price of farm land, the good roads, summer cash markets for many products, and the general reliability of the county in never having total crop failures. With diversity in farming being the general rule, there is always something to "carry the farmer through." One year it was potatoes that assisted, another year it was hay, and generally dairy products are always a basic factor. In farming one should strike a general average, take the lean years with the prosperous ones, in order to get definite results on overhead and income. Then, also, there is something that some farmers do not figure on much, but is an important factor, too, and that is that crop diversifying and intelligent farming increase the value of the land.

Safeguarding Liberty

REDEDICATING the tomb of the martyred Lincoln at Springfield, Illinois, President Hoover took occasion to remind the American people of the great privilege of safeguarding liberty and obedience to the law.

He said in part, "As we scan our history, ever since his day, who can doubt Lincoln's own words that our national heritage is 'worth the keeping.' And it was Lincoln who stated and restated in impressive terms that its keeping rests upon obedience and enforcement of the law. There can be no man in our country who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law. That, the Republic can not admit and still live. For ours is a government of laws and a society of ordered liberty safeguarded by law."

THE trend of population to the cities, where labor is less arduous and diets are more varied and of higher caloric content is listed among the causes for an increase in diabetes and a consequent rising mortality from this disease, according to the Statistical Bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Thanks to the use of insulin and to the general improvement in the treatment of the disease, patients are better able to avoid coma, formerly the chief danger to them. Furthermore, when coma does develop, the chances for recovery are now excellent.

Following the crash of his plane in Joan Marbury's Florida orange groves, young and wealthy Dave Ordway is content with the peaceful life on the plantation that is a contrast to his former pleasure-seeking existence. Adventure awaits him here, however. Mueller, brutal owner of the adjoining groves, is trying to force his attentions upon Joan. He robs Dave and burns his plane because Dave refuses his demands for damage to Mueller's property in landing. Joan's cousin, Sally, who lives on the plantation, is in love with Dave, but he is more attracted by the reserved Joan. When Dave's erstwhile fiancée, Barbara Holworthy, and his friends, Gerry Flemming and Talbot Henderson, visit him, he is aware of the antagonism among the girls. Gerry recognizes Mueller as "Snatch" Cazzoni, a bootlegger. The boys leave to steal Mueller's plane to replace Dave's. They discover Mueller's liquor store. Fearing trouble Dave has Talbot return to warn the girls to stay at home. They disregard the warning.

"Shut up, you garrulous souse!" snapped Dave. Then turning to Talbot, "Tell you what we'll do. We'll all beat it back to Gerry's car. You fellows drive on to Joan's and drop me off half-way. I'll duck through the groves, cut around behind Mueller's men and have another look at the hangar. Chances are that it is still unguarded. They all seem to be milling around here."

"I'm going to smack Mueller," announced Gerry, stubbornly. "Let me finish," urged Dave, impatiently. "I'll try to get the plane according to our plan. You and Gerry had better stay right on at Joan's until I drive back from St. Pete. They won't be safe there with Mueller on the loose."

"I was talking to Sally about coming back to St. Pete with us," confided Talbot. "She wants to come. Perhaps she can persuade her cousin."

"Fast worker, Talbot," hiccupped Gerry. "You don't think I see things, but I do. I could see you getting all limp every time little Black Eyes looked at you."

Dave stared sharply at Talbot. "She's a wonderful girl," said Talbot, defensively. "She makes the girls in our crowd seem like dumb Doras."

Gerry threw an uncertain leg over the window sill. "I'm going to lick Mueller," he declared. "I can lick his whole gang. I can lick anybody who lives around here."

Dave grabbed his shoulder and jerked him back into the room. "We'll have to get out of here, Talbot," he said, "before this idiot ruins everything. Come on, Gerry. When I come back from St. Pete, we'll take on the whole gang for a battle royal."

Therefore we do hereby call a special meeting of said Board to be held at the office of the County Auditor in the City of Brainerd in said County on Tuesday, the 30th day of June, A. ### Just Backache

Myofascitis is an inflammation of the voluntary muscles and fascia at their insertion into the periosteum and the bony structures to which they are attached. In reality it is a toxic myalgia—an inflammatory reaction of the fibrous supporting tissue to extraneous poison, which may be "bacterial or toxic," absorbed from the colon.—Medical Journal and Record.

Ocean Barrier to Fish

There is a marked difference noted between the aquatic life of the North and South Pacific oceans and recent scientific discoveries have revealed the reason. At a point 300 feet below the surface there is a long, wide and deep line of water that is devoid of oxygen, and as the marine life cannot exist without oxygen, the fish never get by this line.

Feared Kidnaped

Evelyn Wilson (above), beautiful 24-year-old actress, is believed by her mother and sister to be the victim of kidnapers, who may be holding her for ransom. Miss Wilson's mysterious disappearance from a birthday party for her sister in New York has police baffled. The actress is said to have complained recently of several "tough men" following her when she was carrying a considerable sum of money.

Antedated Fulton

James Rumsey was an American mechanical engineer, who in 1783, twenty-one years before Fulton built the Clermont, exhibited on the Potomac river, in the presence of George Washington, a boat propelled by machinery, in which a pump worked by steam power drove a stream of water from the stern and thus furnished motive power.

Ed Young Reports He Came Upon a
Cloud of Grasshoppers Over
His Field

QUICK ACTION NEEDED

Complaints Also Received of Fusarium
Wilt Destroying Lower
Leaves of Potatoes

The joy that came with the announcement that crops in Crow Wing county would be unusually good this season turned to worry today as Ed Young, farmer in Mission township reported to County Agent E. G. Roth an outbreak of a grasshopper plague there and reports from other parts that fusarium wilt has struck potatoes.

Young reported that he came upon a cloud of grasshoppers while walking through his fields.

County Agent Roth requested that farmers in other parts of the county report to him immediately the presence of hordes of grasshoppers with the view of stamping them out before they become destructive.

Poisoned mash will be spread in fields and a deadline created in the event of a serious outbreak.

The potato disease where it hit has caused the lower leaves to turn brown and die.

What effect have harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos upon the throat? A famous authority, retained by us to study throat irritation, says:

"The tissues above and below the vocal chords and the vocal chords themselves may become acutely or chronically congested as a result of the inhalation of irritating fumes in the case of chemists for example."

LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays, expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. ## "WOLF LARSEN," ONCE CHAMPION, IS DEAD TODAY

ONE-TIME OPPONENT OF GENE TUNNEY, DEFEATED BATTLING SIKI IN 1919

LAST 2 YEARS OF LIFE SPENT IN JAILS, BREADLINES, MISSIONS

New York, July 9.—(UP)—Magnus "Wolf" Larsen, 30, one-time opponent of Gene Tunney, winner over Battling Siki in 1919, and once an amateur light heavyweight champion of America, is dead today after two years of life in jails, breadlines, missions and hospitals.

"A fine man when he was right," John Olsen of the Bethesda Mission said. "Cook, night watchman, carpenter and handy man he was for four months until last New Year Eve when he went off again. I saw a fellow hit the night before he went to the hospital and the fellow was still bent over, a cripple."

That was the Wolf Larsen of the New York water fronts. "He won many a decision, but more of them were against cops than against prize fighters," Tom O'Rourke and Jim Buckley, who once managed the Wolf, recalled.

"When his freight schooner touched Holland back in 1919 he already had a reputation aboard ship. He was matched with the Senegalese Battling Siki—and won the decision in 10 rounds."

"Then he came to New York. Studied reading, writing and arithmetic, as if they'd help him along in the world, and became amateur champion of his class in America."

"He got by on the rep he made in his fight with Siki—no one realized that both he and Siki were to end their lives in the gutter."

And then Wolf got ambitious. He wanted excitement. He got it. He fought Tunney in 1922 and the fight was stopped with Wolf cut to ribbons.

From then on his life was one of torment.

He fought as a second rater, spending his purses as soon as he won them, in the ports of Buffalo, Detroit, the Soo, Duluth, Milwaukee and Chicago as he touched them when he shipped in the summer time as a Great Lakes seaman.

Five years ago he had become a punching bag—bloated face, cauliflower ears. He became the playboy of the Red Hook section of Brooklyn—a man of 40 in appearance.

His pranks became a legend among the youngsters.

Once he stole a horse and wagon, drove them to the pawnbroker's shop and tried to cash in on them. Once he tried the same stunt with a bicycle, and again he straddled a fish peddler's pony in the Italian market.

The pony wouldn't budge. Wolf picked it up and carried it under his arm. "I thought he was a calf," Wolf told the police.

But last fall, he joined the Mission, and Tuesday he died, "punch drunk."

One quarter of the deaths due to poisoning are accidental, according to a report of a leading life insurance company statisticians, who found 115 of 400 such fatalities were caused by persons mistaking bottles of deadly poison. The most frequent victims were found to be children.

National Rainfall

The winter rainfall on the Pacific coast is associated with the migration toward the equator of the cyclonic storm belt of the prevailing westerlies, with the advance of autumn and winter, and the poleward migration of this same belt in spring and summer. During summer the coast is dominated by the high pressure belt of the North Pacific, with generally clear skies and conditions unfavorable to rainfall.

Word Has Many Meanings

The Chinese word for blessing or good luck is pronounced "fu," and the Chinese character expressing it is a favorite one with the Chinese people for embroidering on linen or having placed on the walls of their houses. It should be borne in mind that the word "fu" means blessing only when written in this way. There are dozens of characters having this same pronunciation, all written differently and having utterly different meanings.—Washington Star.

SAINTS CONTINUE FORWARD MARCH

TAKE BOTH ENDS DOUBLE-HEADER FROM COLUMBUS 10-0 AND 5-3

(By United Press)

St. Paul continued its forward march in the American association yesterday by taking both ends of a doubleheader from Columbus, 10 to 0 and 5 to 3.

Louisville and Milwaukee, in second and third places, respectively, both slipped.

The Colonels were unable to locate the offerings of Ed Holley, who hails from Kentucky, like the Colonels, and Kansas City won, 5 to 2.

Indianapolis brought bad luck to Milwaukee, 17 to 8.

Starting off with four runs in the first inning, Toledo defeated Minneapolis, 11 to 7.

Depends on What You Lay

A professor of economics finds a bricklayer's daily pay equals the value of 300 eggs. This represents a hard year's work for a hen, but bricklayers will point out that a hen cannot lay bricks.—Kansas City Times

Not So Costly

When a man proves unsatisfactory as an employee he gets fired, but he at least doesn't have to pay the boss so much a month ever afterward for having tried him out, the way he does a wife when he has proved unsatisfactory as a husband.—Cincinnati Enquirer

Optimism's Value

Optimism is found in the lives of all the men and women who have helped to make life richer and fuller for others. If you want to be of service in the world, keep encouraging those who are despondent. Try to bring brightness and cheer into the dark corners. An optimist is one who looks for the bright side, turning away from the hidden dangers.—Grit.

Quick Change

A paper hanger had a telephone call recently at the noon hour. A feminine voice said: "Come over to—avenue as soon as you finish lunch. I would like to have you change the paper, as I'm having a bridge party at three o'clock. Bring some paper that will look well with my red hair."

Fits on More Steam

A New York expert in child training says that the way to treat a crying child is to make believe you don't know it is crying. But when the baby sees that he is making no dent, he hitches on both lungs and redoubles his efforts, so what's the use?

"WOLF LARSEN," ONCE CHAMPION, IS DEAD TODAY

ONE-TIME OPPONENT OF GENE
TUNNEY, DEFEATED BATTLING
SIKI IN 1919

LAST 2 YEARS OF LIFE SPENT IN JAILS, BREADLINES, MISSIONS

New York, July 9.—(U.P.)—Magnus "Wolf" Larsen, 30, one-time opponent of Gene Tunney, winner over Battling Siki in 1919, and once an amateur light heavyweight champion of America, is dead today after two years of life in jails, breadlines, missions and hospitals.

"A fine man when he was right," John Olsen of the Bethesda Mission said. "Cook, night watchman, carpenter and handy man he was for four months until last New Year Eve when he went off again. I saw a fellow he hit the night before he went to the hospital and the fellow was still bent over, a cripple."

That was the Wolf Larsen of the New York water fronts. "He won many a decision, but more of them were against cops than against prize fighters," Tom O'Rourke and Jim Buckley, who once managed the Wolf, recalled.

"When his freight schooner touched Holland back in 1919 he already had a reputation aboard ship. He was matched with the Senegalese Battling Siki—and won the decision in 10 rounds."

"Then he came to New York. Studied reading, writing and arithmetic, as if they'd help him along in the world, and became amateur champion of his class in America."

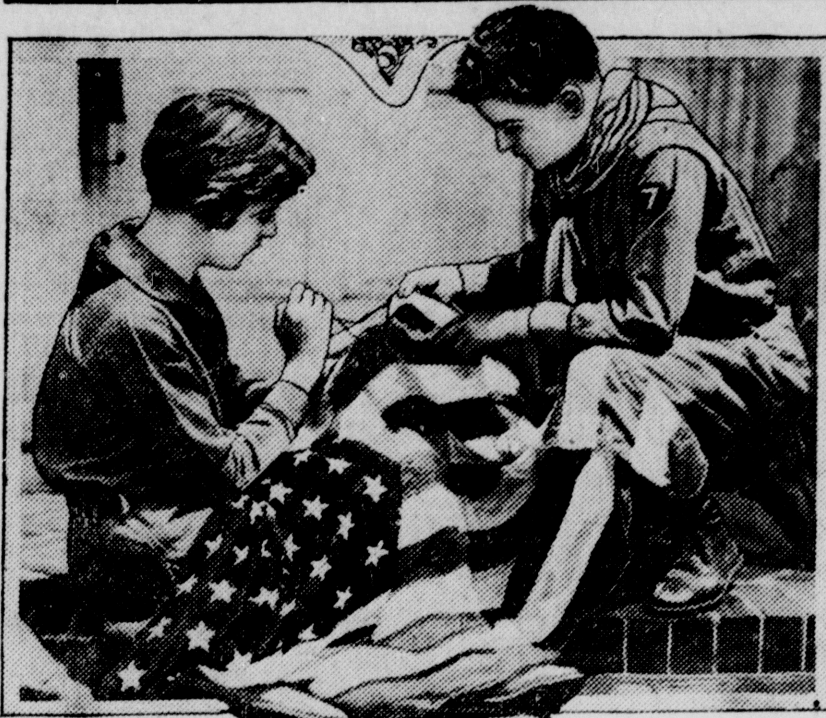

"He got by on the rep he made in his fight with Siki—no one realized that both he and Siki were to end their lives in the gutter."

And then Wolf got ambitious. He wanted excitement. He got it. He fought Tunney in 1922 and the fight was stopped with Wolf cut to ribbons. From then on his life was one of enjoyment.

He fought as a second rater, spending his purses as soon as he won them, in the ports of Buffalo, Detroit, the Soo, Duluth, Milwaukee and Chicago as he touched them when he shipped in the summer time as a Great Lakes seaman.

Five years ago he had become a punching bag—bloated face, cauliflower ears. He became the playboy of the Red Hook section of Brooklyn—a man of 40 in appearance.

His pranks became a legend among the youngsters.

Once he stole a horse and wagon, drove them to the pawnbroker's shop and tried to cash in on them. Once he tried the same stunt with a bicycle, and again he straddled a fish peddler's pony in the Italian market.

The pony wouldn't budge. Wolf picked it up and carried it under his arm. "I thought he was a calf," Wolf told the police.

But last fall, he joined the Mission, and Tuesday he died, "punch drunk."

HALLETT CLARKSON STRICKEN BY ILLNESS

Former Cheer Leader at Washington
High Summoned by Death Today

FUNERAL RITES SATURDAY

Youth Was Popular at School, as De-Molay Member and as Companion

Braierd mourned the loss today of one of the most popular of its younger set in the death of Hallett Clarkson, 21, whose smiles, pep, spirit and ambition effused his life in school and made him a valuable member of the Order of DeMolay and a joyful companion and friend.

A lingering illness claimed the youth's life at 8:15 a. m. today at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Emma Hallett, 307 Main street. The same illness had caused him to retire from the Washington high school where he was a member of the class of 1931.

Active in school life, he unhesitatingly gave freely of his energy and ability to Braierd high. The football and basketball teams owe him their heartfelt gratitude. Often he bolstered the team to come from behind and win by leading the cheering at the psychological moment. He was also one of the most active and interested in DeMolay work, working on numerous committees. The youth was also a popular Sea Scout and Boy Scout.

Funeral rites will be conducted Saturday at 2:30 p. m. from the home of Mrs. Hallett. Complete arrangements have not yet been completed.

Surviving besides his grandmother are his mother, Mrs. Mabel Clarkson, Braierd; his father, Paul G. Clarkson, San Francisco; his brother, Lee Clarkson, Braierd, and sister, Mrs. Imogene Larson, Pittsburgh.

HALLETT CLARKSON STRICKEN BY ILLNESS

Former Cheer Leader at Washington High Summoned by Death Today

FUNERAL RITES SATURDAY

Youth Was Popular at School, as DeMolay Member and as Companion

Braierd mourned the loss today of one of the most popular of its younger set in the death of Hallett Clarkson, 21, whose smiles, pep, spirit and ambition effused his life in school and made him a valuable member of the Order of DeMolay and a joyful companion and friend.

A lingering illness claimed the youth's life at 8:15 a. m. today at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Emma Hallett, 307 Main street. The same illness had caused him to retire from the Washington high school where he was a member of the class of 1931.

Active in school life, he unhesitatingly gave freely of his energy and ability to Braierd high. The football and basketball teams owe him their heartfelt gratitude. Often he bolstered the team to come from behind and win by leading the cheering at the psychological moment. He was also one of the most active and interested in DeMolay work, working on numerous committees. The youth was also a popular Sea Scout and Boy Scout.

Funeral rites will be conducted Saturday at 2:30 p. m. from the home of Mrs. Hallett. Complete arrangements have not yet been completed.

Surviving besides his grandmother are his mother, Mrs. Mabel Clarkson, Braierd; his father, Paul G. Clarkson, San Francisco; his brother, Lee Clarkson, Braierd, and sister, Mrs. Imogene Larson, Pittsburgh.

S. M. BABCOCK'S WILL IS FILED

INVENTOR OF MILK TEST
LEAVES $133,000
ESTATE

Madison, Wis., July 9.—(U.P.)—Dr. Stephen Moulton Babcock, who refused to accept the equivalent of a million dollars when he turned over to mankind his famous method of milk testing, saved $133,000 during his 44 years as a university professor, his will on file for probate here has revealed.

In the will, Dr. Babcock decreed that his life savings be used for betterment of the world, just as was the Babcock milk test. The estate eventually will revert to the University of Wisconsin to be used for scholarships and research.

Scientists said Dr. Babcock could have profited by $10,000,000 or more if he had patented the milk test method. But like his other discoveries, Babcock declared that it was for the benefit of the world and no restrictions would be placed on its use.

While refusing to become a millionaire through his experiments, Babcock lived well within his modest income as a professor at the university, it was revealed today. He saved approximately $2,000 a year of his salary and invested it wisely.

Perhaps the most valuable of Dr. Babcock's works was contained in records of 20 years experimentation to solve the mystery of gravitation. The experiment was unfinished at his death, but it was believed that the records will be of great benefit to other scientists in carrying on his work.

Income from Babcock's savings will go to several relatives and the entire estate will revert to the university on their deaths.

plane over the hazardous mountains of British Columbia.

The weather was foggy and a steady drizzle of rain was coming down as the plane flew over this northern outpost and headed toward Solomon, 35 miles from here, where it was believed the refueling contact would be made.

Tokio, July 9.—A large searchlight, with a beam visible for 30 miles, was installed at Tachikawa airfield today to guide Reginald Robbins and H. S. Jones on the last stages of their attempted flight from Seattle to Tokio. Preparations were made for huge crowds to meet the aviators at the airfield. Interest in the flight has grown hourly as the Fort Worth speeded toward the Japanese capital.

On the Funny Side

EXCELLENT PUBLICITY

"How do you like your new publicity agent?" asked the film star's friend.

"Oh, he's wonderful," she cried, beaming with enthusiasm. "We've been robbed twice, our house has been burned, our car has been wrecked, and I have had my life threatened by an anonymous enemy since we employed him."

Another Reason

"Why are telephone rates so high?" "Because of the extravagance of the American people," answered the man who can explain everything. "The company has to charge extra because whenever there is a great popular demonstration people insist on tearing up telephone books to make confetti."

Problems in Ushering

Head Usher (to aide in crowded picture theater)—Tell that large woman she'll have to take her hat off that other seat and hold it in her lap.

Usher (back after a few minutes)—What'll I do now? She says she ain't got no lap.

No Way Out

The old man's wife had been ill for some time, and he was asked how she was getting on.

"Oh, ma'am," he replied sorrowfully, "the doctor won't give us no hope either way."

S. M. BABCOCK'S WILL IS FILED

INVENTOR OF MILK TEST
LEAVES $133,000
ESTATE

Madison, Wis., July 9.—(U.P.)—Dr. Stephen Moulton Babcock, who refused to accept the equivalent of a million dollars when he turned over to mankind his famous method of milk testing, saved $133,000 during his 44 years as a university professor, his will on file for probate here has revealed.

In the will, Dr. Babcock decreed that his life savings be used for betterment of the world, just as was the Babcock milk test. The estate eventually will revert to the University of Wisconsin to be used for scholarships and research.

Scientists said Dr. Babcock could have profited by $10,000,000 or more if he had patented the milk test method. But like his other discoveries, Babcock declared that it was for the benefit of the world and no restrictions would be placed on its use.

While refusing to become a millionaire through his experiments, Babcock lived well within his modest income as a professor at the university, it was revealed today. He saved approximately $2,600 a year of his salary and invested it wisely.

Perhaps the most valuable of Dr. Babcock's works was contained in records of 20 years experimentation to solve the mystery of gravitation. The experiment was unfinished at his death, but it was believed that the records will be of great benefit to other scientists in carrying on his work.

Income from Babcock's savings will go to several relatives and the entire estate will revert to the university on their deaths.

plane over the hazardous mountains of British Columbia.

The weather was foggy and a steady drizzle of rain was coming down as the plane flew over this northern out- post and headed toward Solomon, 35 miles from here, where it was believed the refueling contact would be made.

Tokio, July 9.—A large searchlight, with a beam visible for 30 miles, was installed at Tachikawa airdrome today to guide Reginald Robbins and H. S. Jones on the last stages of their attempted flight from Seattle to Tokio. Preparations were made for huge crowds to meet the aviators at the airdrome. Interest in the flight has grown hourly as the Fort Worth speeded toward the Japanese capital.
